V. Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. STATEMENT

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-41	YES
	Claims NONE	NO
Inventive Step (IS)	Claims NONE	YES
	Claims 1-41	NO
Industrial Applicability (IA)	Claims 1-41	YES
	Claims NONE	NO

2. CITATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

Claims 1-41 lack an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3) as being obvious over Cochrum et al (US Publication 2002/0197302) in view of Kipshidze et al (US Patent 5,437,292). The patent to Cochrum et al discloses a method for treating a puncture in an artery or vein by applying a vasoconstrictor to the skin over the catheter exit site. Cochrum et al teach the vasoconstrictor decrease cessation of blood flow in a rapid period of time. Cochrum et al does not mention the percent of time that the cessation of blood flow is achieved in comparison to a topical barrier without the vasoconstrictor. It would have been obvious to achieve the same results as claimed since Cochrum et al utilize substantially the same method as recited. The patent to Kipshidze et al also suggests the use of a vasoconstrictor to reduce blood flow in a relative short period of time. The Cochrum et al and Kipshidze combination suggest the method steps recited in the claims above.
